restoring hope . . . reconciling relationships . . . transforming lives

Welcome to “The Clinic” at Samaritan Center of Puget Sound

We are pleased that you have chosen Samaritan Center for assistance at this time in your life. We hope that you will find this to be a positive and useful experience.

About Samaritan Center

Samaritan Center of Puget Sound is accredited by the Samaritan Institute and affiliated with the Presbytery of Seattle. Our therapists come from a variety of Christian faith perspectives and represent a wide range of ages and life experiences. They are interested in and respectful of the spiritual values, beliefs and cultural heritage of all persons.

In providing therapy, we seek to engage in a process that is attentive to the integration of mind, body and spirit. We believe that healing occurs on multiple levels – mind, body, spirit and soul – and are always willing to consider with our clients the physical and spiritual as well as psychological aspects of healing. We are curious about the part that spirituality plays in wrestling with life’s dilemmas and transition points, and we bring our own heartfelt responses to the situations in which our clients find themselves. We endeavor to promote growth and well-being in our clients, engaging with them in a collaborative manner to make the changes that they desire in their lives.

THE RIGHTS OF CLIENTS IN COUNSELING

It is appropriate for clients to raise questions about the counselor, the therapeutic approach, the progress of therapy and the cost. As informed consumers, it is the client's responsibility to choose the counselor and counseling modality which best suits their needs. Clients have the right to request a change in counseling approach, referral to another counselor or termination at any time.

All therapists at SamaritanCenter of Puget Sound are bound by the ethical codes of their professional organizations, by the laws of the State of Washington, as well as by agency policy regarding the special nature of the therapist-client relationship. This agency expects all counselors continually to be aware of the influential position they hold in the relationship with clients, using this influence in a constructive way. If a client thinks his/her therapist is not meeting this ethical responsibility, he/she is strongly encouraged to address this with the therapist and/or bring it to the attention of the agency's clinical director.

We keep a record of the health care services we provide you. You may ask us to see and copy that record. You may also ask us to correct that record. We will not disclose your record to others unless you direct us to do so or unless that law authorizes or compels us to do so. To see your record or get more information about it contact your therapist.

CONFIDENTIALITY

Counseling sessions are held in strict confidence. It is the client, not the therapist, who determines whether information may be released to persons outside Samaritan, and then only with a release signed by the client. Exceptions to this rule: Washington state law mandates that there is no confidentiality when child abuse or abuse of a developmentally disabled adult has occurred within the last seven years. The counselor may also be required to break confidentiality in life-threatening situations when the client poses a clear and present danger to self or others or is unable to provide minimum life-sustaining self-care. If this occurs, the counselor will take the steps necessary to secure the safety of the client or others.

TRAINING AND PROFESSIONAL BACKGROUND OF YOUR COUNSELOR

I received my Masters degree in professional clinical counseling from Ashland Theological Seminary in Ashland Ohio. I received a Masters of Spiritual Formation and Missiology from Ashland Theological Seminary in June of 2002 as well. I worked for the Smetzer counseling Center, during 2005-2006, as my internship helping low income based clients received counseling for various needs. I started and ran the Workforce investment act program for Catholic Charities Social Services where we helped high risk youth attain job skills, their diploma or G.E.D. and worked toward getting them full time careers or the ability to college when they graduated from High school.

I work with clients to see what the root issue is in their life that is causing them not to be able to function with the freedom that they would like in their daily life. How we do this is looking at behavior patterns, the thoughts and beliefs that surround why we do these behaviors, how family and loved ones have been an influence to us in these behaviors and how with understanding ourselves and knowing that we want to change we can walk out to freedom.

James' work at Samaritan Center is supervised by William K. Collins, M.S., a licensed Marriage and Family Therapist. James is familiar with ethical and practice standards that apply to counselors in the State of Washington.
